AN HEIR AT LARGE

CHAPTER L.

Harry L. Rasher, leaving Mary Brook, struck off into the hills to be alone, and did not turn back until long after dark. Little did he dream that beneath the faint glow far down the valley, which was Adamant, excited people were searching for him, or that his name was leaping from lip to lip.

Mrs. Lannard, like a capable general, was marshaling her forces to retrieve victory from defeat. After learning the crushing truth of his identity she planned and acted quickly. She sent for Mr. Clipper, the local editor, long a faithful cog in the Lannard Stabb machine. He arrived flurried by the unexpected honor. She was friendly and serene.

"I have some news for you," she announced; "I think you pressmen might call it a "scoop" or a beat." Mr. Clipper assented eagerly.

"There is now no further necessity for its remaining a secret," she went on.

"Ah, an engagement?" asked the editor quickly.

"Don't jump at conclusions!" Mrs. Lannard wagged a deprecating finger, but her smile suggested confirmation rather than defial. "Of course, you know Mr.—the young man known as Mr. Rasher?"

"Why, yes, of course," said Clipper, his speculations adrift.

"Well, he merely assumed the name of Rasher while adrift.

"Why, yes, of course," said Clipper, his speculations adrift.

"Well, he merely assumed the name of Rasher while playing a diverting role. His real name is Henry Livingston Bacon, and—this will interest you, I'm sure—he is the heir of the Livingston estate, which has such great holdings in these mills. He and Muriel, my daughter, have been friends"—she smiled significantly—"for years."

"Ah," exclaimed Mr. Clipper, "this is most interesting! But I thought that Miss Lannard was engaged to Count—to that Russian nobleman?"

"Mr. Clipper, you, have much to learn about the young ladies of today. Count Kolnokoff has been devoted to her, it is true, but the engagement—if one might so call it—has ceased to be. He has left, and is doubtless pleasantly engaged elsewhere."

"Well, really, Mrs. Lannard, we never cared much about seeing Miss Lannard marry a foreigner, anyway! We preferred some good young American." Mrs. Lannard continued as though she had not heard his last words:

words;

"Mr. Bacon is of an excellent family, and served admirably in the war. He is a splendld young American who will not be spoiled by wealth." She expanded the subject with many more details of young Mr. mills led him to come here quietly to study conditions, so that he might gain a first hand knowledge of the property he may some day direct."

Mr. Clipper sat up.

"Direct?" he exclaimed. "Is he to direct the plant?" Mrs. Lannard shrugged her shoulders.

"He is young and energetic. Mr. Lannard is getting along, and will no doubt be glad to have younger shoulders take up the burden. He has been hoping to arrange matters so that we may take a long deterred trip abroad, where he can spend some months at a cure." Mr. Clipper looked concerned.

"I didn't realize—" he said. "I thought Mr. Lannard was in excellent health."

"Only lately has he seriously considered the necessity of taking life more quietly."

"And Mr. Stabb?" inquired the editor with a faint smile.

"And Mr. Stabb?" inquired the editor with a faint smile.

"Why do you smile?" she asked.

"Well, to tell the truth, Mr. Stabb was in to see me not an hour ago. He told me he had arranged to have a commission of lunacy act upon Rasher—Mr. Bacopand that by tomorrow he'd have him in an asylum. After what you have just told me, his energy in this matter has its droll aspects."

"Mr. Stabb could use the commission with benefit on himself! He will doubtless soon leave the plant," said Mrs. Lannard coldly, and added quickly: "Mr. Lannard has been contemplating a change of managers for some time." Mr. Clipper arose to go.

"May I ask, Mrs. Lannard, if I may safely intimate that a romantic attachment exists between Mr. Bacon and—your daughter?"

"There you go again, leaping at conclusions!" she and—your daughter?"

"There you so again, leaping at conclusions!" she smiled. "But seriously, Mr. Bacon has been devoted to Muriel for a long time. At first I opposed an engagement, in the face of his repeated proposals, and then he and Muriel had a misunderstanding, some triffing matter—you know how that happens with young people—and she, in a pique, became engaged to Count Kolnokoff, and I presume Harry has had his little fling in some other direction. Now that they have come logic ther again—well—who knows? I hardly think it would be correct to say the

At any rate, Muriel has not told me—though she saw him this afternoon and did seam quite excited this, evening." She sighed, "I suppose I'll hear in good time."

Mr. Clipper bowed, and, bursting with the whale of a story, tore up the street to see Rasher, who could not be located anywhere. The search widened, and the story flew from lip to lip, until the town was rocking with the sensation. Mr. Stabb heard it as a condemned man hears his sentence.

Mary Brook did not know until she picked up the paper at her door next morning and read the flaming headlines.

Experience-Priceless in Advertising!

Advertising is too young as a science to be reduced to workable laws. Its practice is not yet written in books. Hence, experience must be the guide. Experience based on time, scope, and caliber of operation, is almost priceless as a safe-pard for the advertiser.

The outstanding feature of this company, of interest to very advertiser, is experience as an organization, over more than 18 years, with an extraordinary group of great consens. Such organized training in the application of advertisers to business should be investigated by large advertisers to show visible results, right how, are of crucial importance.

DAWN OF PEACE

The President bimself, his friends say, is most expectant that the dawn of peace is at hand and that it will not be necessary to make the struggle for aupremacy between government on one hand and organized labor and organized capital on the other.

The President realizes that his message to congress Friday meant nothing if it did not mean that the time has come in this industrial crisis for a showdown on the ability of the government to prevent deliberate defiance of its laws. He was prepared for the struggle, but hoped that it would not be necessary, and that the railroad executives and employés would compose their differences, yielding to the majesty of the law.

Today, his associates declare, the President feels that his message has had the effect of bringing both sides in the railroad controversy into a conciliatory spirit which will lead to an end of the strike.

"Every Foot Discomfort Is Nature's Call for NATURE-TREADS"

New Invention for Feet

Light, Cool, Comfortable, Healing FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Made in accordance with principles and rules outlined and laid down by the world's greatest orthopedic authorities

Banish These Troubles

Away with callouses, corns, pains at ball of foot, cramped toe, Morton's toe, sore heels, run-over heels, and sore, tired, weary, aching feet caused by weak arches, weak ankles, flat foot, "hump foot?" wrong weight distribution or improper foot posture. NATURE-TREADS will work wonders for your feet in a new and highly successful way. NATURE-TREADS will steal away your foot and leg miseries with a mild and healing swiftness that will pleasantly surprise you.

Nature-Tread Shop Success

Nature-Tread Shop Success

Since opening our Chicago NATURE-TREAD SHOP, thousands of foot sufferers from this city and surrounding neighborhoods have flocked there. Heaps of arch supports, braces and elastic bands and other harmful, cumbersome, expensive and habit-forming devices have been thrown in our waste basket and abandoned. Scores of Chicago's leading orthopedic surgeons are sending their footweary patients for NATURE-TREADS, and today fifty per cent of our Chicago Shop's callers have been sent there by doctors or directed by friends who wear NATURE-TREADS. The staff of expert NATURE-TREAD fitters has been increased to making waiting unnecessary.

Nature-Treads Fit Neatly NATURE-TREADS are worn inside even the most dainty and delicate slippers and pumps as well as in exfords and high shoes. There is no weight to lug around and no bulk of harness to bulge the shoes out of shape. They are changeable from one pair of shoes to another instantly.
NATURE-TREADS are made in fifty sizes, absolutely assuring a perfect fit.

Money Back Guarantee

Wear Nature-Treads for ten days. If you are not satisfied, return them and we will refund your money. Could anything be more fair?

> What Doctors Say (AS TO WRONG METHOD)

"It is the custom of the day when a person has sweak foot to place in the shoe a plate or support to press against the arch. In the light of experience, this is both physiologically and mechanically wrong." ("Prevention of Weak Foot" in JOURNAL OF AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION,

(AS TO WRONG METHOD) reh supports should not be worn for weak or fact foot, as they tend to decrease the muscular power of the soles of the feet." (MANUAL ON FOOT CARE AND SHOE FITTING for Officers of the U. S. Navy and U. S. Marine Corps.) (AS TO CORRECT METHOD)

"The underlying principle in the satisfactory treatment of common foot defects consists in restoring weight bearing to those parts of the foot to which weight bearing naturally belongs. All other forms of treatment/merely support or pallitate." (STATIC FOOT TROUBLES, in THE JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, by the Supervising Orthopedic Surgeon of the U. S. Army, Dec. 14, 1918.)

WHY FEET HURT

Painful feet differ from normal feet in the amount of the sole area under the instep that is used for weight-bearing, instep that is used for weight-bearing, the natural weight-bearing or treading surface of the foot being the heel, outside half of the instep-width and the ball. In any degree of flat foot, too much of the sole-width is used, which means that some or all of the surface that should be arched and free from pressure is getting pressure. When weight is carried only on the natural treading surface of the foot, as when NATURE-TREADS are worn, callouses, corns, general foot aches and cramping and all other foot disorders quickly disappear.

Not Too Good to Be True

Don't say this sounds too good to be true, for with ten days' wear of NaTURE-TREADS you will join the thousands of NATURE-TREAD boosters who have finally found genuine and lasting foot comfort. We back this promise with a "Money Back Guarantee." One NATURE-TREAD wearer says that out advice on shoe fitting alone (we do not make shoes) was worth $500.00 to her, and the NATURE-TREADS worth much more.

IS CHIEF BUNKER AHEAD OF TARIFF

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—American valuation looms up as the chief stumbling block in expeliting action by conferees of the senate and house on the tariff bill which was passed yesterday by the senate after four months of debate.

Although Representative Fordney [Mich.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, who some months ago threatened to kill all tariff legislation unless American valuation will not press the matter further if the house refuses to uphold him in a Fordney to Awalt Sentiment.

Mr. Fordney professes to believe that the house will vote overwhelmingly for American valuation; but many others incline to the belief that he will find himself reversed on the proposi-tion and that the conferees then will Miss Kathleen Dodd, 24 years old, not only the lady mayor of Lewham, England, but also the city's accept the foreign valuation basis, as provided in the senate bill, without fur-ther delay. Committee Not Enthusiastic.

Until the house expresses itself the other two Republican conferces representing the lower branch may stand with Mr. Fordney for American valuation. Representative Green [Ia.], one of them, is known to be lukewarm on American valuation, although he supported it in the house ways and means committee. He is ready to accept foreign valuation. Representative Longworth [O.], the third Republican conferce, is more pronounced in advocacy of American valuation, but is not expected to press the matter to the same extent as Mr. Fordney.

Inasmuch as the Democrates in the house will vote against American valuation, the defection of about a third of the Republicans will turn the tide against the ways and means committee chairman. It is understood Representing the first the senate bill.

In the conferce of the first the senate of the leaders in the movement for a dye embargo, which will not enter into the discussion in conference, inasmuch as it was not provided for in either the senate or house bill.

Mr. Fordney favors the acceptance of the increased duties on sugar provided in the senate bill.

CURTAILMENT OF RESERVE OFFICER

Washington. D. C., Aug. 20.—War department officials are disturbed over curtailment of the force of officers and enlisted men on duty with the reserve officers' training corps, "due to recent legislation reducing the strength of the army," Acting Secretary Wainwright has informed Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war and now president of the Cleveland chamber of commerce.

Mr. Wainwright's interest of the present time "the situation is most disturbing" in the war department because of the reduction by congress of the size of the army and also of the amount of appropriations for the training corps.

Minnesota and the smaller that there was no loss of life. But the loss of timber, which in the best of circumstances cannot be replaced in less than fifty to seventy-five years gives no room for congratulation. It is a calamity.

Mr. Cox explains that the fires were caused by peat bogs. Assuming that he is correct, his statement that they could be prevented by legislative regulation of drainage of peat farms is a grave ent of the state administration. Anything which could be done but is not done to prevent these annual wastes of one of the nation's most important and most rapidly dwindling natural resources should be an inspiration for unanimous appeal for corrective measures.

To allow the recurrence of such destruction when it can be prevented is an indictment of the gov-ernment responsible. Whether it be due to natural causes which can be corrected or to carelessness. it is equally a subject for popular consideration

Just now a few thousand people are paying board at hay fever resorts. If these folks could stay at home the saving in money would be recovered.

these folks could stay at home the saving in money would be no small matter. So much for the size of the problem. Dr. William Scheppegrell of New Orleans has a remedy. He has written about the disease, its prevention and its cure, and the situation caused by the disease and its cure, in a book which rivais "Ross on Malaria" or "Koch's Original Communication on Teberculosis," the former in its illuminating employment of the mathematical method and the latter in the completeness of its demonstration.

But the people who read this column are not looking for book reviews. Those who are reading this want me to hasten to the facts in Scheppegrell's book.

Hay fever is as prevalent among country people as it is among city folks. Farmers have a little more than their The rich and the educated are no more subject to it than the poor and the uneducated.

Having hay fever makes people nervous, but being nervous does not tend to cause hay fever.

Such nose troubles as spurs, deviated septums, antrum trouble, and such throat conditions as adenoids and tonsils lay some foundation for hay fever, but they are not essential factors. For instance, a parrow mass) passage predisposes to a narrow nasal passage predisposes to hay fever by increasing the amount of pollen which will be arrested by the nose membrane in that vicinity. Having spring hay fever predisposes to

An Unusual August Sale Feature Cretonnes Exceptionally Low Priced

Thousands of yards. Cretonnes of both domestic and foreign weave, remarkably beautiful, and at prices the lowest of many seasons.

Three Price Groups 35c, 55c and 95c Yard

The fabrics are firm and heavy in texture. The sort of cretonnes that one knows immediately are of the finer grades and in the more artistic patterns.

The Designs Have the Distinction of Old-Time Prints-the Colors Are Softly Blended -the Patterns Quaint

In these groups may be chosen cretonnes for the making of new hangings, slip coverings for furniture, pillow coverings, laundry bags, and other articles planned for autumn refurnishing.

Indeed, the prices are so low and the cretonnes so remarkably attractive, the entire refurnishing of the sun parlor or bedroom may be planned with very small expenditure.

Too Much Emphasis Cannot Be Placed on the Unusual Values Brought by This Sale of Cretonnes. Note the Prices, 35c, 55c, 95c Yard.

The Uniform Wrapping Paper

Coal is bought by the ton, when you can get it, but the value per ton is determined by the heat units which the coal contains.

Years ago coal was just coal—the firm which made the lowest price sold the most coal.

But consumers of coal learned that some coal was better than others in that it contained more steam producing units to the ton—therefore worth more per ton.

Just so in the wrapping paper—
Paper used to be just paper, and the firm uoting the lowest price per pound sold the most paper.

Not so now, however, for consumers have learned that some wrapping paper is better than others—in that it contains more uniform strength units in the sheet than others.

Wrapping paper value depends upon the amount of constant, uniform strength units contained in the sheet.

A 50 pound sheet of wrapping paper, for instance, containing 30 units of strength to the square inch of surface, costs more than a 30 pound wrapping paper containing 30 units of strength to the square inch.

In the first instance you paid 6c a pound for the 50 pounds of paper, it cost you—$3.00.

In the second instance you paid 8½c a pound for the 38 pounds of paper, it cost you—$2.55. A saving of 45c a ream or $1.50 a hundred pounds—or $30.00 per ton—or $600.00 a car.

The MILLS of MOSINEE make MOSINEE wrapping paper only, containing one unit of strength for each pound of weight. Every aid that science, brains and money can procure is used to keep MOSINEE to this uniform high standard of excellence and economy.

PROBABLY the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a game at the Cubs' north side park turned out yesterday to see the final Glant game. More than 26,000 paid their way into the enclosure. Spectators crowded the field at every point of vantage, some perching on the right field wall and offiers on the scoreboard. At 9 o'clock yesterday morning every reserved seat in the stand was sold and the crowd gathered to await the opening of the gates as early as 11 o'clock. At 2 o'clock standing room only was available, while shortly before 3 the gates were closed, leaving a mob of some 3,000 loutside.

More than 75,000 saw the three game Cub Giānt series, according to the estimate given out by club officials last night. Friday's game drew 23,000, Shturday's 25,000, and yesterday 26,000 paid. This did not include the pass gate and ladies' day customers, who were admitted free on Friday. Few series played in Chicago have attracted greater crowds. ing Glants yesterday. The final score was 5 to 4 and the victory was put over in the seventh inning in which the Giants scored four runs. It was a great battle and a hard one for the Bears to lose, for they fought the New Yorkers from start to finish in tooth and nail fashion.

Babe Makes Costly Error.

The Sox got away in front because of a triple by Hooper on top of singles by Strunk and Collins. Hooper also scored when Falk hit. Babe's homer in the Yankee half, with Dugan on base, shaved that lead down a bit. Then the Babe handed the two runs back to the Sox by muffing McClellan's fly in the third, letting the runner circle the bases in the wake of Falk, who had walked.

Mays quit in favor of Hoyt after this inning, and the schoolboy was invincible, whereas Faber let the Yanks crawl up on him with runs in the third and seventh.

INLAND LAKES YACHT RACES START TODAY

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—A fleet of forty-four catboats will hoist sail in Lake Geneva bay this morning and jockey away to a start in the first race of the twenty-fifth annual regatta of the Inland Lakes Yachting association. Eight twenty-four foot sloops will follow them off in the class X contest, and the five-day competition for the inland championship will be underway.

By far the most important race of the day, however, and of every day until the regetta ends next Friday, will begin at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when twenty-two thirty-eight footers leap away in the first class A spin. It is expected that the race judges will decide upon the triangular course in the bay for the first day's racing, instead, of sending the boats down the lake to the windward and return.

Andy Schmader, navy heavyweight champion, who will be among the head liners in the four day boxing carnival promoted by Jim Mullen and Jack Sager at Aurora, starting tomorrow night, arrived in Chicaso yesterday

EVERY Apperson is a better motor car because of the many thousands of Appersons built before it. A quarter century of creative effort is reflected in each motor and chassis unit. In their production, the skill of Apperson mechanics has kept pace with the refining and simplifying of mechanical principles and details. The result is the most sturdy and accessible 8-cylinder motor car manufactured. Its superiority of performance, endurance and road comfort is definite by comparison. A telephone call will bring an Apperson demonstrator to your door -today.

He went on—not conscious that an atmosphere of attention was stimulating him; but it stimulated him, just the same.

"If once I start cooling my heels in waiting rooms, waiting for sirs and secretaries to attend to me, a mere humble nobody of an inventor hanging about, my mast's done for. From that moment . . . I don't mind being nobody much; I don't mind how I live nor where I lunch. But my Mast

"My Mast," said he, "has got to have a car the door ready to take it on to the Berkeley or at the door ready to take it on to the Berkeley or the Ritz. It's got to entertain in that style; ignore the understrappers and go for the people who can get things done. (A lunch, a dinner from my Mast might do the whele trick. . . .) It's got to go in for choice little week-ends at country houses, and to play golf when it's supposed to be working, and to know what wine and cigar people to go to and who to ask to theater parties. That's what I mean by 'lunches,'" he summed up, pregnantly. "The actual thing itself mightn't cost hundreds. Launching it will run into—thousands."

Thousands?"
he made a little gesture of gloved hands.
he said, "Well?" meaning, "Those thousands could be yours."
Wait." he said. "D'you mind not saying anything for a minute?"
Wait." he said. "D'you mind not saying anything for a minute?"

Again he sank into thought. After several minutes he raised his head. Then he said, "And my—the duties would be?"

Composed and lucid (and prepared), she told him. What she proposed to him in effect was as follows:
Subject to modification by her solicitors (who must, he imagined, consider the young woman quite insane), the bulk of her accessible fortune was to be to tied up that the signatures of both herself and the man who married her would be necessary before it could be touched.

Apart from this, each would draw a fixed private allowance of, an amount to be determined later. Hers was to be based on a scale of expenditure sufficient but very much less diffuse than it had been in the past. The amount of his would depend (for the present) on the immediate and definite requirements of his Mast. Plus his personal allowance.

"No," he said, instantly. "Not any personal allowance,"
He might toy with the idea of doing such a thing for the sake of his Mast, but even in thought he could not suppose himself putting a penny into his own focket over this.

Presently he said, "Must you have a definite answer now on the spot?"

Be stood, watching and waiting.

What are you looking at, Clo'?" asked a girl's voice behind her.

Be voice belonged to Bosemary Meadows, her cousin, a bright, fair haired about twenty-one, who sat on the low, embroidered fender stool, with a sweets on one side of her, the Sunday Times on the other, and in her last number of Colour, as well as Clover's own library book, which she usual annexed.

What is the excitement?"

She had not mentioned to her family that she had specially invited and was cting a caller.

A caller, however, who was not the young man whose slik hat now eared round the privet hedge; a young man who came forth as a bride-om from his chamber and walked with a certain familiarity up the path.

the room she had just left.

For the drawing room of her aunt's large, old fashioned house (though it lewed traces of three centuries) was characteristic in the main of only one.

The Eighteenth Century appeared in the excellent prints after Lawrence, sinsherough, Romney; portraits of Mrs. Meadows' "great-greats." She was last is called "very well connected on one side." From that side she inherited a harp that gleamed in one corner of the room, the harp that she kept strung, the list strings of gold and silver, its red string, its strings of gut—but that a was almost never known to play. Graceful relic of the Eighteenth stury.

The Nineteenth Century, however, predominated. Everything was solid sthing—"so unlike now, when everything is wholly hollow," Clover had mented. She loved the icicle chandelier and the tall Brinsmend rosewood b. with its frilled panel of apple green silk behind fretwork, the cabinel to with sheaves of stamp papered ballads by Tosti and Molloy; she loved thins cupboards gnarding Chelsea, Rockingham, and Spede. Altogether was something comfortable, reassuring in the atmosphere of these is, like taking test with a benevolent Dowager of the Old School who is a glad to see you and who has never heard of the High Cost of Living, beviam, Pisarroism, Dadalam, or anything clae that may have "come in" her own girls "cume out" in the year of the Diamond Jubilee.

ENGAGED Roundup Held at

Deer Grove Camp

Deer Grove Camp
by Prairie Club
The annual roundup and woodland carrival of members of the Prairie ciub who have been active in the Deer Grove camp of the club was held yes thereby and Saturday at Deer Grove forcest Freserve, near Palatine, III.

More than a hundred followers of the Outdoors were present at the gathering, largely in honor of Dr. John L. Kirby, chairman of the Deer Camp committee.

An "open air banquet" took place Saturday evening, at which the development of the camp was recited. Under Dr. Kirby's leadership, it was pointed out, the clubhouse, with dornitory space for some seventy-five persons, above a large "common room" and community kitchen, has been erected. Through cooperation with the Woman's City club, scores of girls employed and in high school thus have been enabled to spend week-endin the open, learning simple woodcraft and the charm of wild life.

A huge council fire, which illuminated an area a city square in size and flamed to the treetops, was the set ting for esthetic dancing and games, which were followed by a playlet. "The Movers,' and sketches by forest preserve campers."

all. I dreaded trying to tell how to cook sugar to that extremely ticklish point where it is neither so stiff as to make the apples seem as though wrapped in some paper nor cooked so little that it will run off the apples.

Before the Whole School. It happened while I was teaching a mall country school. Merle was a bright little fellow, but Whatever he had to say must be said for every one's benefit.

There had been two young men drawing gravel past the schoolhouse, and though I had never met them they were well known to the children. 1. One cup sugar, one cup molasses, half a cup of water, a few drops of vinegar, and little butter perhaps. You can get on without the butter. Cook until a little dropped in water becomes brittle but not too brittle. One morning Merie was late to school. He entered the door at the front of the room, dinner pail in hand, swelling with pride at being so important a mes-brittle but not too brittle.

2. One cup of brown sugar, one-fourth cup of corn sirup, one-fourth cup water. Cook till a little above the point where it forms long/hairs when lifted in spoon.

This latter mixture cooks in half the time or less than the other. It makes a brighter looking apple or one which looks "jellied," but has not the "tafsenger.

He said: "That man I met said to tell Miss Wilson that he loved her just as much as ever." S. G. W.

Overcome.

I have an elderly uncle who is known to be most penurious and also is not fond of children. So when he is not fond of children. So when he comes to call I warn my young son, Tommy, to be careful of his behavior.

The last time he came Tom behaved himself beautfully and I was most proud of him. Just as uncle, left he handed Tommy 50 cents.

The child took the coin and stood looking at his uncle, saying nothing.

"Why, Tom," I said, "what do you say to your uncle?"

"Goodness," Tom answered, "I'm too surprised to say anything."

N. S. The apples should be washed, wiped dry, and ready on stout wooden skew-ers. After dipping an apple it should be held so that the extra taffy will run

SCENE AFTER MICHIGAN CENTRAL EXPRESS WAS WRECKED. This twisted mass of steel and timbers was all that remained of Train No. 39 after it jumped the tracks at Gary, Ind., yesterday morning. Engineer Edward Coy and Fireman E. Lubbo were killed and two express messengers were injured. The wreck was due to the removal of spikes which had fastened the rails to the ties at the spot where the engine left the track. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the wreckers.

cause of the Michigan central wreck this picture shows how the spikes which had held the rails to the track had been removed. Arrows point to one of the saved, spikes and to place where fishplate joining the rails and been removed. The spikes had been torn out from all of the ties included within the dotted line.

STRIKING SHOPMEN SHOW THEIR STRENGTH.
Rail strikers paraded through the Burnside district yesterday afternoon. The picture shows the head of the parade, led by former service men, who carried a banner with the legend:

"We fought in the world war so this country might live; let us live."
